Search Me - Future of Search

Paul Jones <jones@unc.edu> or smalljones most places

Flickr credit: cjc4454
Moving from Scarcity to Abundance
Anticipating the Verb in Search Requests and Results

“The future of search is verbs.”
Bill Gates

Flickr credit: metacheetra
From Search to Friend Referral (Twitter, Facebook, email, etc)

Flickr Credit: fazen
Faceted search results from many data sources and types

Flickr credit: abcrumley
Balancing Publicity and Privacy
Restricting information makes it difficult to access or to search.
Translating and mistranslating across fields, culture and languages

Flickr credit: jon.satrom
Information is hidden and elusive and impermanent

Flickr credit: The Left Field
Not all information is equally trustworthy or appropriate
Some cyber solutions from UNC School of Information & Library Science

Flickr credit: Tom Poes
Some cyber solutions From UNC

HIVE - Helping Interdisciplinary Vocabulary Engineering from the Metadata Research Center

Digital Curation building curriculum to reconceive archiving
Some Cyber solutions From UNC

iRODS
the integrated Rule-Oriented Data System from Data Intensive Cyber Environments

NC DETECT
North Carolina Disease Event Tracking and Epidemiologic Collection Tool